

WOBBIGREEN EMOJIS TEST

1998 Shigetaka Kurita, an engineer at the Japanese phone company, NTT Docomo created the first emoji. He was working on a way for customers to communicate through icons. The result was a set of 176 icons he called emoji. The name combines two Japanese words: “e” (picture) and “moji” (character). Kurita says that he drew inspiration for his emojis from manga, Chinese characters, and international signs for bathrooms. Now, more than 1,800 emojis exist. The best part? We don’t need to tilt our heads sideways to understand them.

In essence, we’re watching the birth of a new type of language. Emoji assist in a peculiarly modern task: conveying emotional nuance in short, online utterances.

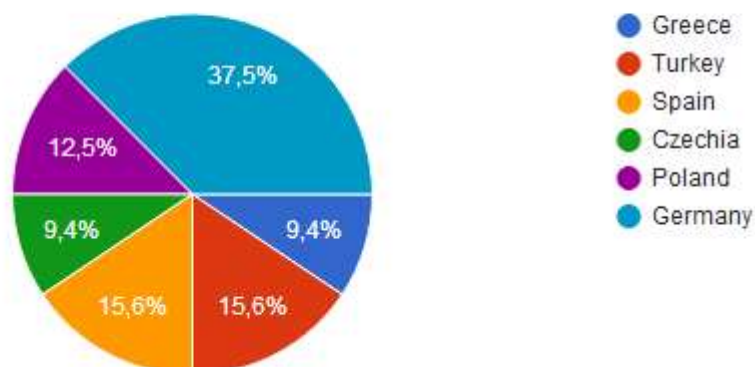

I am a

32 Antworten

I am from

32 Antworten

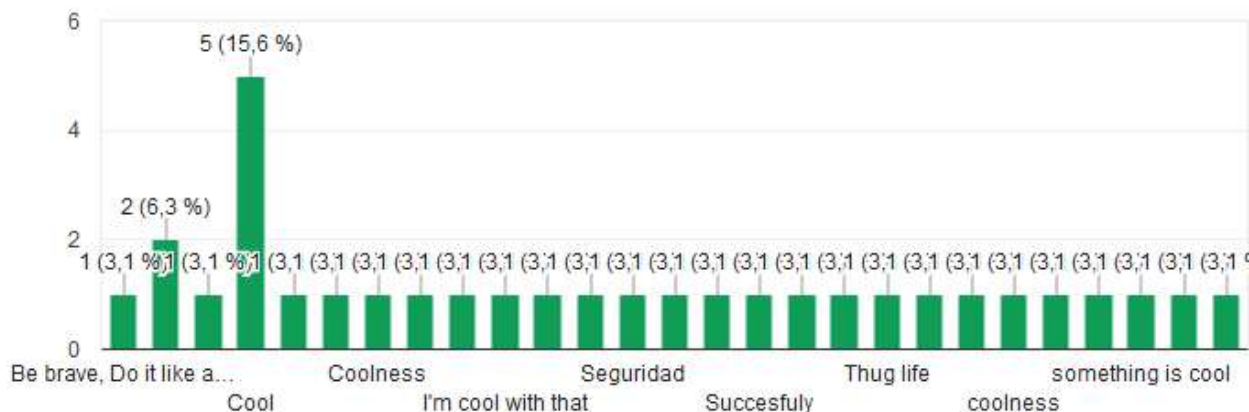

1 😊 This emoji conveys

32 Antworten

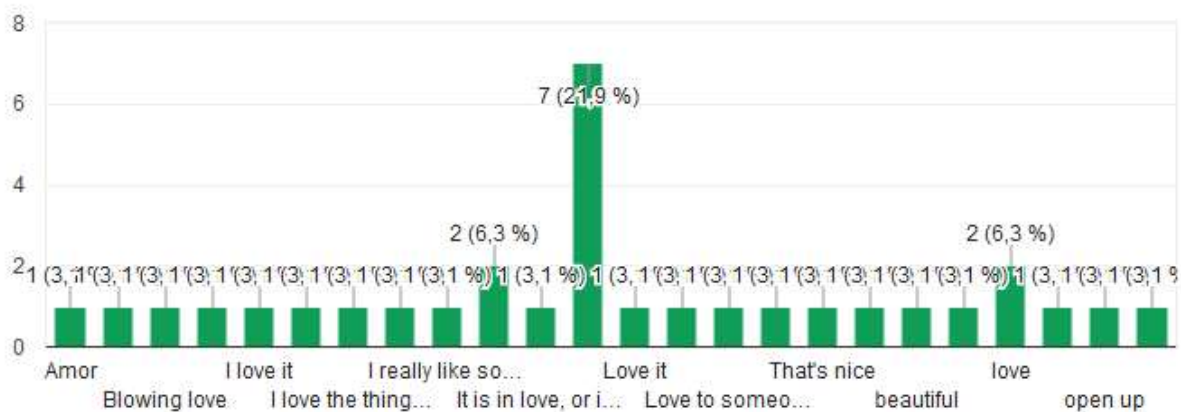

2 😎 This emoji conveys

32 Antworten

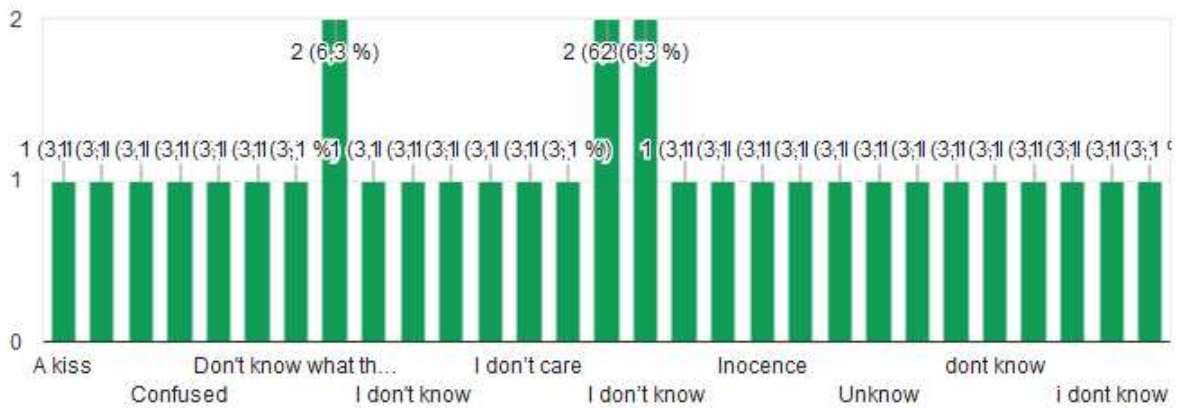

3 😍 This emoji conveys

32 Antworten

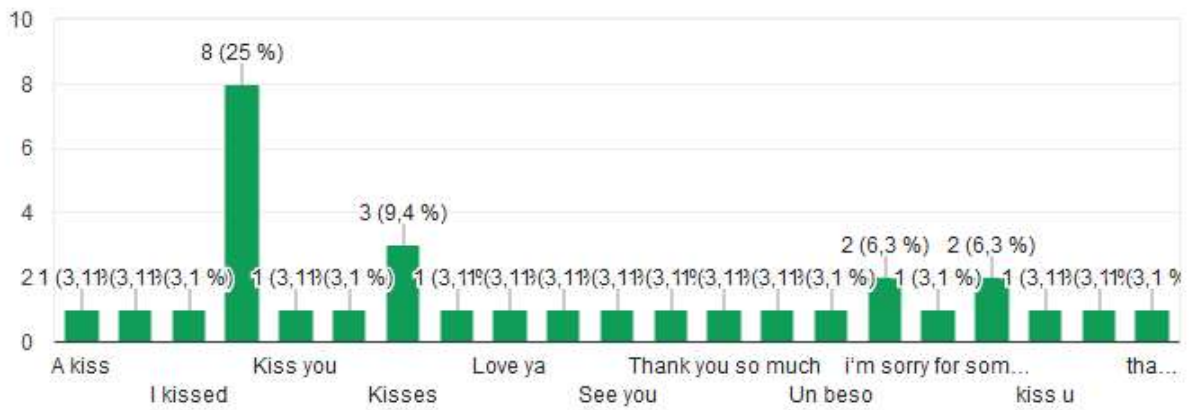

4 🙄 This emoji conveys

32 Antworten

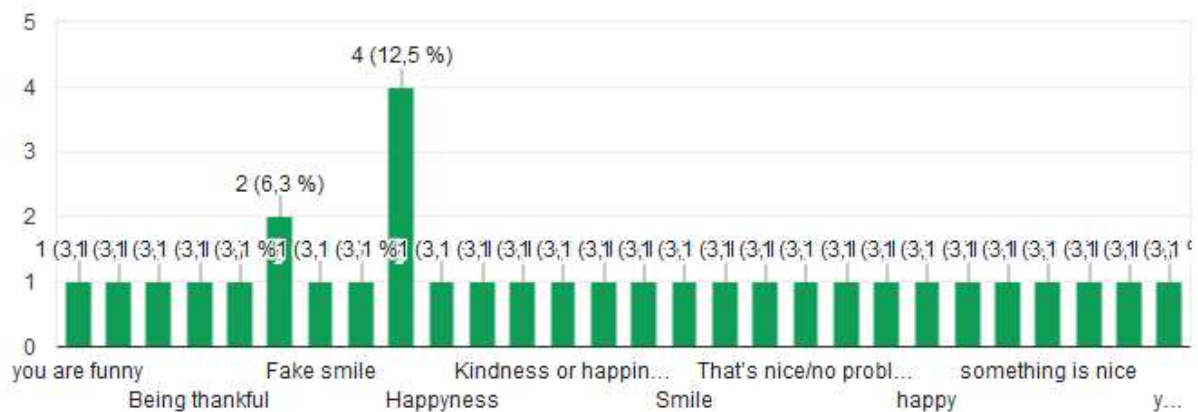

4 😏 This emoji conveys

32 Antworten

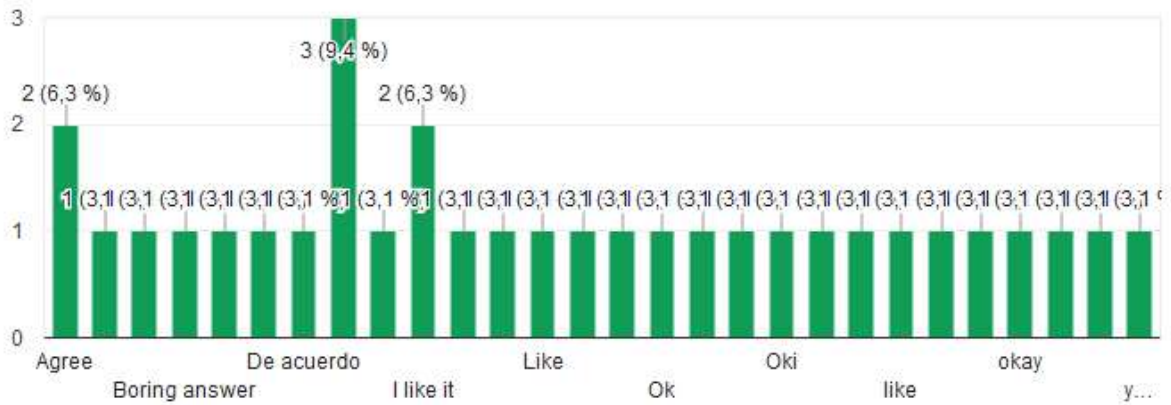

5 😊 This emoji conveys

32 Antworten

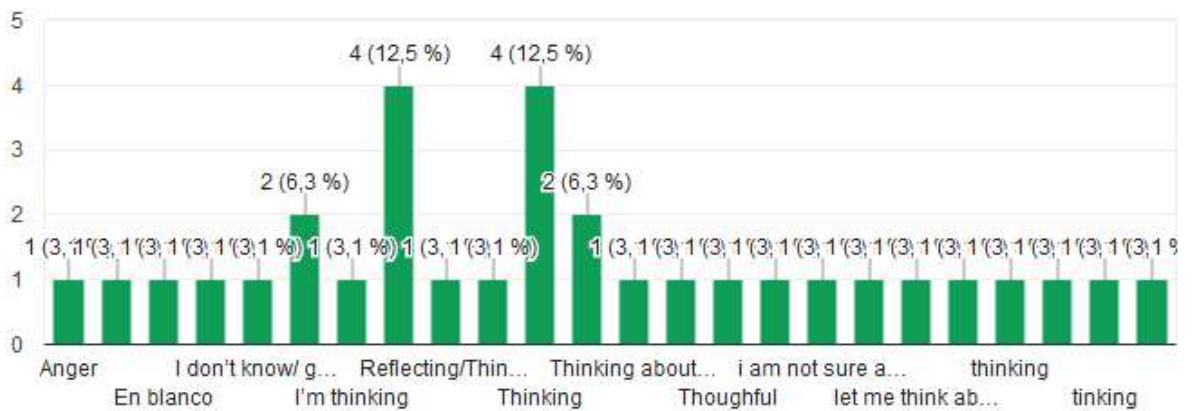

6 👍 This emoji conveys

32 Antworten

7 😏 This emoji conveys

32 Antworten

8 🤔 This emoji conveys

32 Antworten

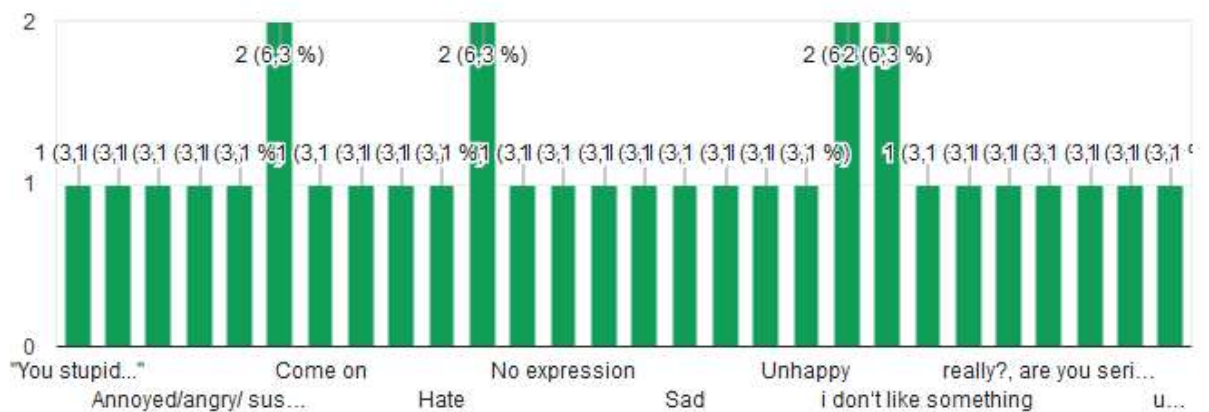

9 🙄 This emoji conveys

32 Antworten

10 😡 This emoji conveys

32 Antworten

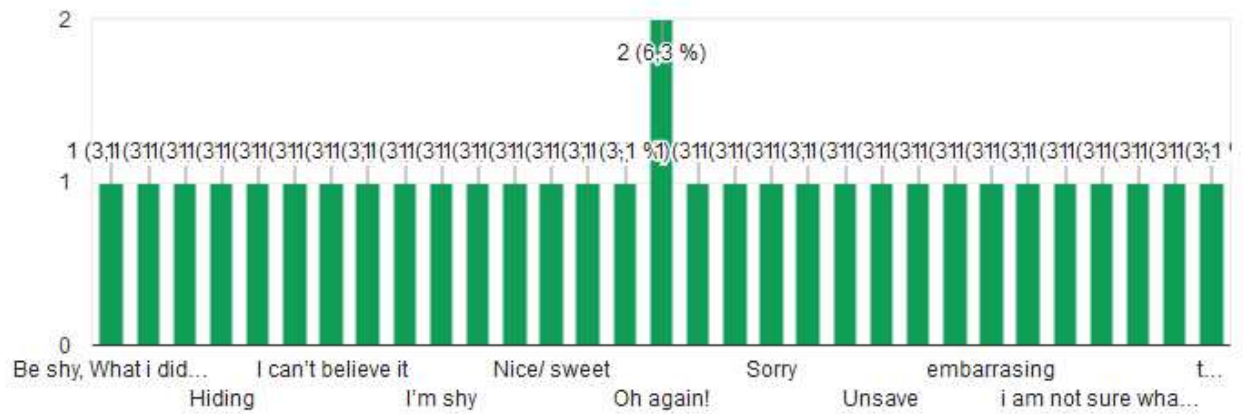

11 🍻 This emoji conveys

32 Antworten

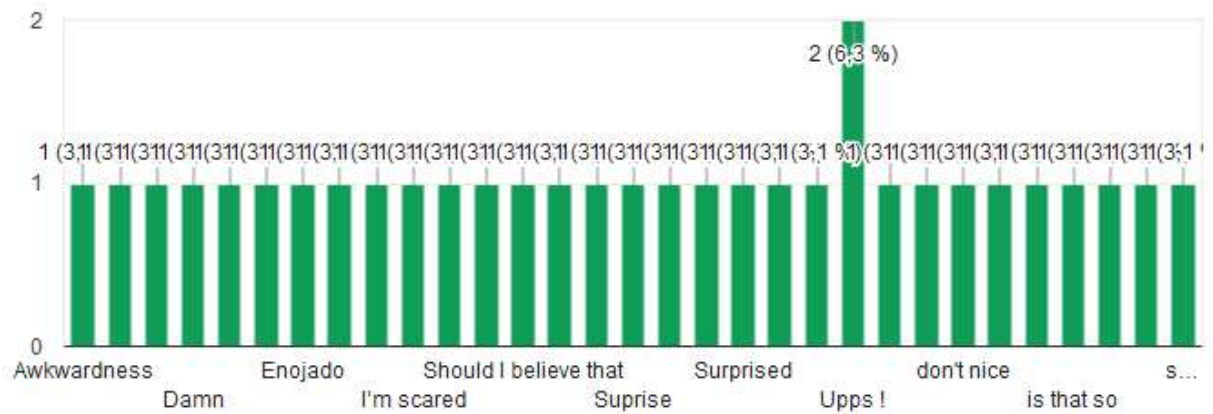

12 🙄 This emoji conveys

32 Antworten

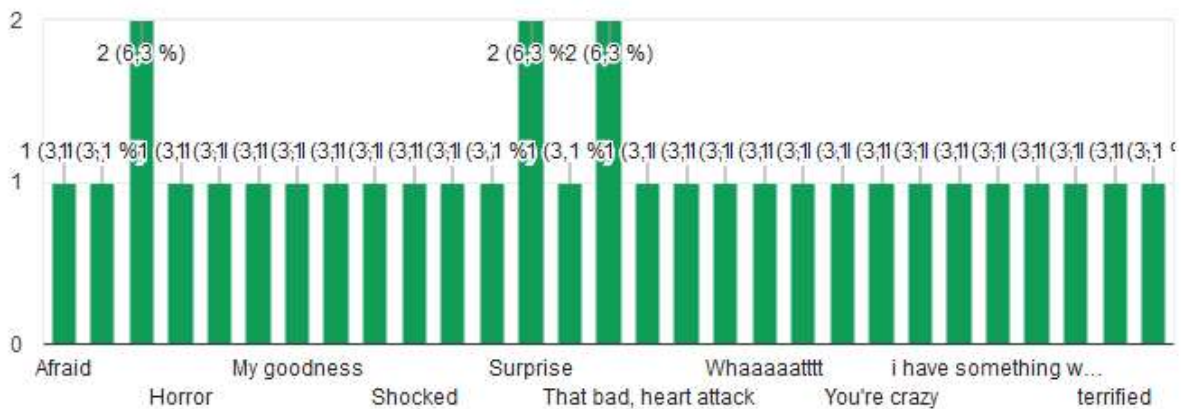

13 😬 This emoji conveys

32 Antworten

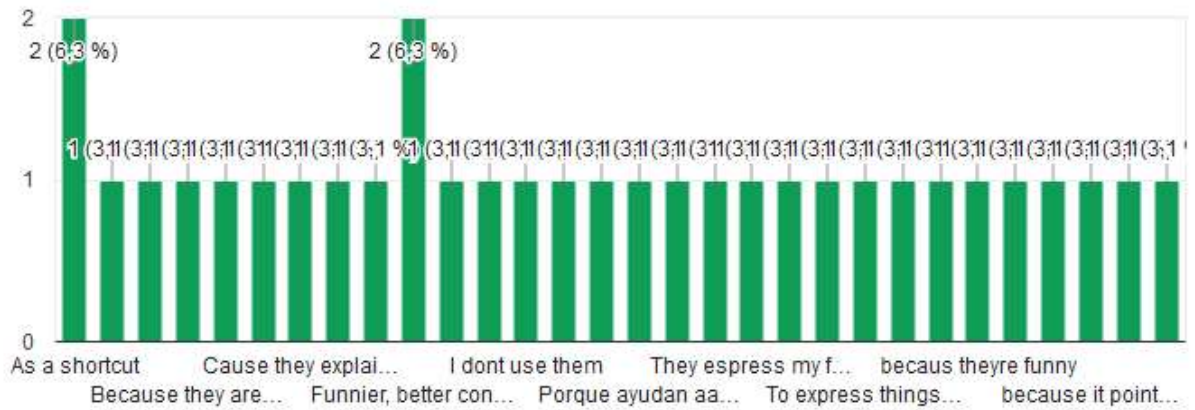

14 😱 This emoji conveys

32 Antworten

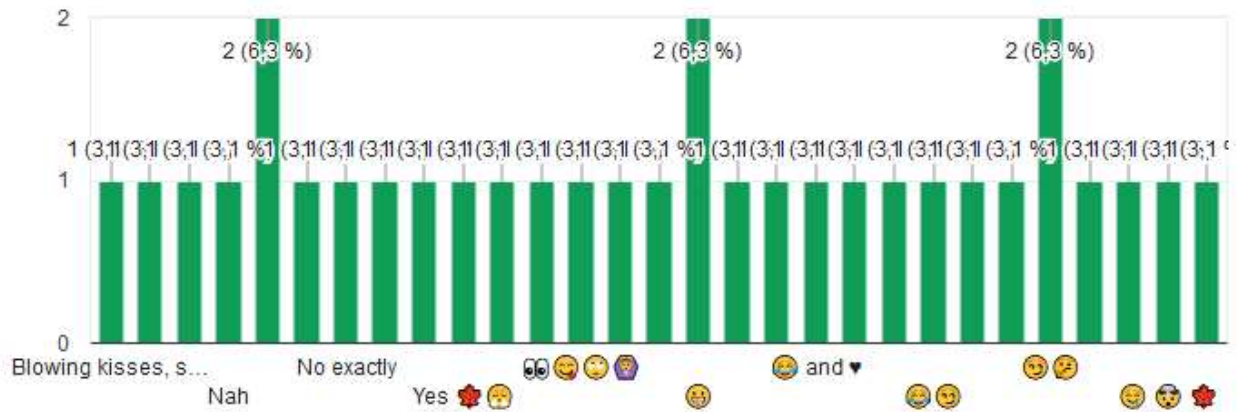

15 Why do you use emojis?

32 Antworten

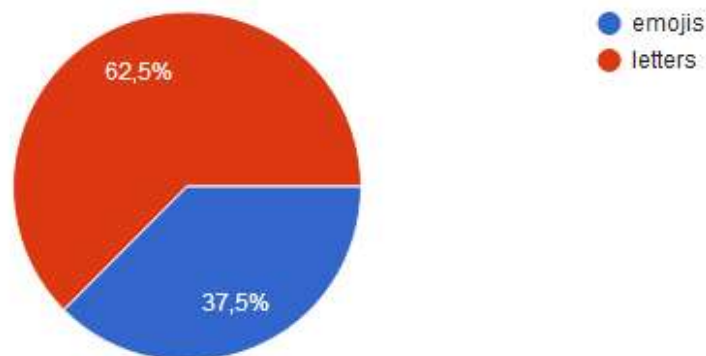

16 Do you have a favourite one (or twos)?

32 Antworten

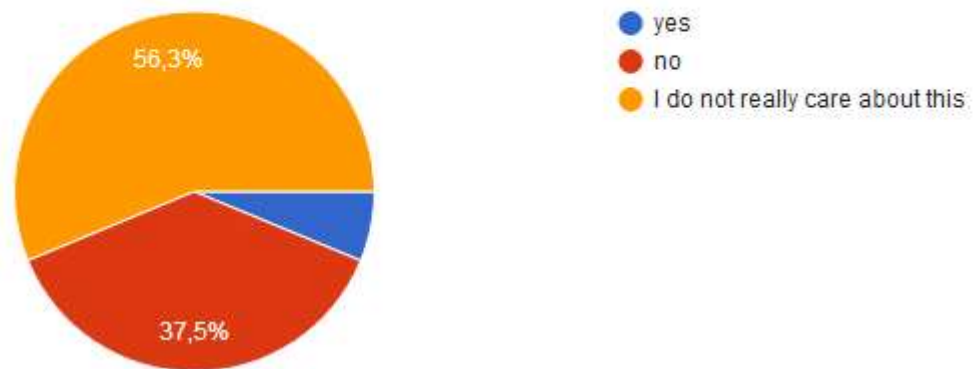

17 What could make you more upset if used in a wrong sense or meaning: the letters or the emojis?

32 Antworten

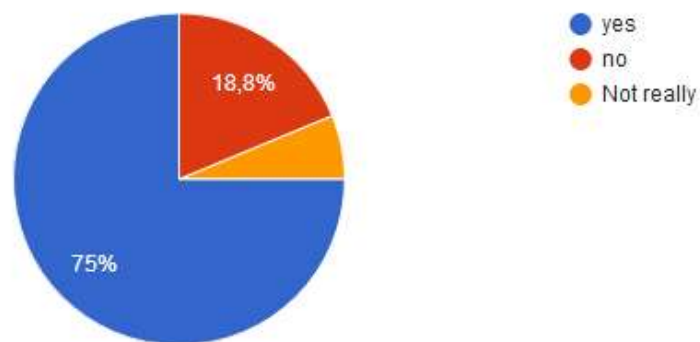

18 Do you think emojis are racial (relating to skin colour for example)?

32 Antworten

19 Do you use special emojis with "special" friends or people?

32 Antworten

20 Do you think there is a question missing? If so please note it down

32 Antworten

